Honeycomb Light Sculpture in Stand

by Patrick Weder

Contemporary

United States

Patrick Weder's Honeycomb Light Sculptures are inspired by the idea of transforming industrial materials into natural forms.

No two Honeycomb Light Sculptures are alike. Weder hand sculpts the signature shapes from galvanized steel wire and then applies many layers of recycled paper by hand, both inside and out, to form these striking Honeycomb forms.

The Honeycomb Light Sculptures can be modified as a Tabletop Lamp with the addition of a bespoke Wooden Stand or as a Ceiling Mounted Chandelier with the addition of a Blackened Brass or Polished Brass hanging structure.
